

What You Can Expect With A Vocational Assessment

What is a Vocational Assessment?

A Vocational Assessment is a co-created, realistic, individualized plan for work post-divorce.

What is included in the assessment?

The result of our work is a 10+ page report that is sent to the collaborative team. The report includes formal assessments and their results, your career specific context and history, impact of the marriage and divorce on your work life, skills and talents, barriers and challenges, recommended career paths, income potential, estimated timelines, and a plan of action.

What is the process?

- Before our work starts, I will speak briefly to the collaborative team to get context.
- Then you and I will have hour-long, confidential, weekly meetings for up to 8 weeks. We will work together and create a draft of the report you are confident in.
- Next, we send the draft to your attorney so the two of you can discuss it. Changes might be requested at this time.
- Once we have a final copy, you and your attorney will present the report to the team.

How do we get started?

You are welcome to schedule a free 30-minute consultation to ask questions and share about your situation.

I'm glad to help you create a plan for your work life after divorce. It can be a scary and confusing time to be thinking about work and income. I'm here to help you find a path forward you feel confident in, with practical, tailored steps that support you in your new chapter.

About Aubrie De Clerck, CPC, PCC

Aubrie is highly respected International Coaching Federation certified career coach and the founder of Coaching for Clarity. She is considered an expert in providing career development and career transition services to those experiencing big life changes including divorce, grief & loss, health challenges, and layoffs. You can learn more about Aubrie on LinkedIn.